School Library Guidelines

South Dakota 2010

INTRODUCTION:

Effective school libraries make a powerful difference in student achievement and help to form the habit of reading and learning for a lifetime. To be effective it is essential that a school library have a place, a program, and a professional.

“Effective school libraries are much more than books. They are learning hubs, each with a full range of print and electronic resources that support student achievement. Today’s school libraries must be gathering places for people of all ages and all interests to explore and debate ideas. School libraries have the most significant impact on learning outcomes when they are supervised by a [school librarian], who works collaboratively with teachers, to help all students develop a love of reading, become skilled users of ideas and information, and explore the world of print and electronic media resources.” (School Libraries Work! p. 6)

The following school library guidelines are based on best practices from the professional research as well as the work of the American Association of School Librarians, the National Board for Professional Teaching Standards: Library Media Standards, the International Society for Technology in Education, and the Partnership for 21st Century Schools.

When school boards, administrators and librarians use these guidelines in conjunction with the South Dakota School Library Content Standards to guide their library development, they will be taking an important step toward assuring that graduates of South Dakota’s PK-12 school districts are prepared to successfully participate in our global world.
